BLUE HERON’S CONCERTS OF CHRISTMAS PAST have focussed on the music of one place or another, visiting 15th-century England or France or taking an excursion to early 17th-century Germany and the music of Michael Praetorius. This year we celebrate with some favorites from past programs, including a handful of previously unreleased concert recordings, along with brand-new recordings of several songs and some music that is new to us, by the unknown—Childe and Edmundus, whoever they may have been—and the anonymous as well as the famous Cristóbal de Morales. We are delighted to welcome two of our brass-playing friends from Dark Horse Consort. And towards the end we unwrap a special present, crafted in Chicago this fall by Kevin Allen and receiving its world premiere performance on this concert.

Annunciation, Advent & Christmas

We begin with the familiar Advent hymn Veni, veni Emanuel. Probably French in origin, the hymn may have made its way to England as early as the thirteenth century, when Franciscan friars in France and England maintained extensive connections and an evangelizing member of the order might have carried such a song across the Channel. The text is a metrical version of five of the seven so-called O-antiphons which date back to the eighth century or earlier. One of the O-antiphons was sung before and after the Magnificat at Vespers on each of the seven days before Christmas Eve. They address the Messiah to come in his various attributes: O Sapientia (wisdom), O Adonai (Lord), O Radix Jesse (root of Jesse), O Clavis David (key of David), O Oriens (the morning star), O Rex (king), O Emanuel (“God with us”). The initial letters, after the O, spell out the promise of redemption in a reverse acrostic, SACROPER, ero cras: “Tomorrow I shall be there.” (Medieval English tradition added an eighth antiphon, “O virgo virginum,” making the acrostic vero cras: “Truly, tomorrow!”)

The Annunciation is formally commemorated nine months before Christmas, of course, but the miracle is remembered and celebrated at the Christmas season with retellings of the archangel Gabriel’s appearance to Mary, their conversation—brief, yet charged with import—and the divine conception. Our set of Annunciation music opens with one of the most famous songs of the English Middle Ages, Angelus ad virginem. The song figures in Chaucer’s Canterbury Tales, in the Miller’s Tale, where it is sung to a psaltery by a poor scholar at Oxford by the name of Nicholas:

And al above ther lay a gay sautrie,
On which he made a-nyghtes melodie
So swetely that al the chambre rong,
And Angelus ad virginem he song ...

(In the tale, a notably rude one, Nicholas goes on to cuckold his landlord, an elderly carpenter with an eighteen-year-old wife named Alison. A medieval reader would presumably have relished the ironic slightly blasphemous reference to a song about a virgin conceiving a son in the absence of her husband,) also a carpenter.) Christopher Page has shown that the text of Angelus ad virginem is probably by the poet and theologian Philippe (d. 1236), chancellor of Paris, nearly all of whose Latin lyrics survive with music. Text and tune probably came to England with travelling Franciscans in the thirteenth century, just as we have imagined happened with Veni, veni Emanuel. The song quickly became popular in England: all of the extant sources are British and there are two thirteenth-century versions in English verse, Gabriel fram Heven-King and The angel to the Vergyn said. We sing the former in a two-voice setting from the fourteenth century, inserted between verses of the monophonic Latin song.

Fifteenth-century England evolved its own unique repertoire of texts and music outside or alongside the liturgy, carols, of which some 130 survive. Carols are found mostly in manuscripts of church music and were clearly the province of professional musicians and learned clerics, as witness their sophisticated musical notation and frequent use of Latin alongside the vernacular. If not exactly popular music in our sense, however, they were at least popular in character—cast in strophic form and set to simple and highly memorable tunes—and “popular in destination” (in the words of the preeminent twentieth-century student of their texts, R. L. Greene). They might have provided entertainment and edification to educated cleric and uneducated congregant alike, within, around, and outside of the liturgy, for processions and banquets and celebrations of all kinds.

The polyphonic carols on our program are drawn from four manuscripts copied between around 1400 and the middle of the 15th century. Most are written in a robust popular style with graceful melody and simple harmonies and generally take the form of a three-voice refrain with a two-voice verse. Yblessid be that Lord in mageste is in two parts throughout and for Nova nova, transmitted as a monophonic song, I have added two parts to the refrain and one to the verse. The two earliest English songs, Ave Maria I say and Thys Yol, copied circa 1400, are in a sort of virelai form, AbbA. We also play the latter as an instrumental with an added third part.

The early decades of the 15th century saw striking changes in the compositional style of learned polyphony in England. Listen to the craggy dissonances and bristly cross-rhythms of Leonel Power’s astonishing Gloria from the Old Hall manuscript of c. 1415, for two, four, and finally five voices—Christopher Page likens the effect to sticking your head into a beehive—and compare it to the canonic example of quintessentially English sweetness, Dunstaple’s rapturous Quam pulcro es. The latter work is fluid, tuneful, and almost entirely consonant—sweet, a fifteenth-century musician would say, just as Hayl Mary or Ther is no rose are sweet.

New Year’s with the Valois

Europeans have long celebrated the season around the winter solstice with the ritual exchange of gifts and wishes for good luck and a prosperous new year. The custom in its present form coalesced around the feast of Christmas only in the late nineteenth century, but its roots in western culture can be traced as far back as the ancient Near East. Romans of the imperial era marked the Kalends of January with a festival several days in length, during which the people offered tributary gifts called strena to the emperor in exchange for presents of money. Medieval Europe absorbed the Roman New Year’s festivities into its own calendar, modifying them somewhat according to the evolving sensibilities of the Christian church, but the tradition of giving presents at New Year’s persisted despite the efforts of the church to suppress what it regarded as pagan beliefs in good luck omens and the efficacy of ceremonial gift exchange. In France, the Latin strena passed into the vulgar tongue as estraine (estreine, étrenne, etc.), retaining its meaning of “omen of good fortune” as well as “New Year’s gift.”

New Year’s was celebrated with peculiar intensity at the courts of the Valois nobles who ruled both France and Burgundy in the late fourteenth and early fifteenth centuries, and members of the courts exchanged precious gifts in enormous quantity. Philip the Bold, duke of Burgundy from 1364 to 1404, disbursed an average of 6.5 percent of his annual budget on estraines, while his nephew and political enemy Louis d’Orléans spent no less than 19,000 livres at New Year’s in 1404. (At the time a good horse or a finely ornamented harp might be had for around 50 livres, a house for 100 or so.) Illuminated books, jewel-encrusted saltcellars, enamelled serving vessels, golden cups, reliquaries, pendants, brooches, rings, horses, dogs, hunting falcons: all changed hands in an ostentatious public ritual that honored the chivalric virtue of largesse, cemented social ties, established position within the courtly hierarchy, and allowed the rich and powerful to flaunt their wealth.
Just as it does today, all this flamboyant materialism sometimes benefitted those further down the social ladder, the artisans and craftspeople who fashioned the sumptuous objets d’art prized by their noble commissioners. The makers of New Year’s gifts included poets and musicians, and it is a small irony that while one single, superb little golden and bejeweled tabernacle—27 songs remain to us that commemorate the occasion. (Ten of them are by Guillaume Du Fay.)

While we don’t know the exact circumstances in which New Year’s songs were written, we can imagine that a courtier would provide a composer with verses to set to music, and the song would then be presented to the courtier’s lady love or perhaps performed at a public celebration. In exchange for his strena a courtier might hope to win the lady’s amorous favor, while the musicians could expect a gift of money or household necessaries. We know, for example, that in January 1454 Johannes Ockeghem presented Charles VII a book of music as an estraine, receiving four ells of scarlet cloth worth 44 livres, while in 1459 a single song “most richly illuminated” earned him another 44 livres. (Neither book nor song is known to be extant.)

In keeping with the conventions of chivalric love, these fifteenth-century New Year’s songs are generally not boisterous, champagne-inspired toasts. Elegantly crafted and finely wrought, their merit as gifts was measured in part by their ingenuity or estrangeté (novelty), and most are marked with a graceful sort of melancholy, for courtly love can never be consummated, only yearned and suffered for.

A Child is Born

Today’s newborn is Kevin Allen’s splendid setting, for tenor and bass voices paired with tenor and bass sackbuts, of an eleven-stanza version of the well-known hymn Puer nobis nascitur, to whose melody Allen’s piece alludes briefly in its opening measures. The music deploys Renaissance contrapuntal techniques and employs a Renaissance-inflected harmonic vocabulary, giving each of the eleven stanzas a different treatment (in scoring, rhythm, and harmonic color) that responds to the emotional nuances and narrative motion of the text and achieves the Renaissance ideal of rhetorical and musical varietas. The piece culminates in a direct address to the Virgin of Virgins, “Virgo decus virgini-um,” a passage marked by marvelous harmonic effects and a subtle expansion of the meter from duple to triple.

A very Merry Christmas and the happiest of New Years to Kevin Allen and to all of you!

I. THE MORNING STAR

Veni, veni, Emanuel!
Captive solve Israel,
Qui gemit in exilio,
Privatus Dei filio.

Gaude! gaude! Emanuel nascetur pro te, Israel.

Veni, O Jesse Virgula!
Ex hostis tuos ungula,
De specu tuos tartari
Educ, et antro barathri.

Veni, veni, O Oriens!
Solare nos adveniens,
Noctis depelle nebulas,
Dirasque noctis tenebras.

Veni, Clavis Davidica!
Regna reclude celica,
Fac iter tutum superum,
Et claude vias inferum.

Veni, veni, Adonaï,
Qui populo in Sinaï
Legem dedisti vertice
In maiestate glorie.

O come, O come, Emmanuel!
Redeem captive Israel,
who laments in exile,
deprived of the son of God.

Rejoice! rejoice! Emmanuel shall be born to you, O Israel.

Come, O Rod of Jesse!
From the enemy’s claws,
from the pit of hell
lead your people, and from the maw of the abyss.

Come, come, O Morning Star!
Console us with your coming,
dispel the gloom of night,
and pierce the nocturnal shadows.

Come, Key of David!
Open wide the heavenly kingdom,
make safe the road above,
and bar the ways to hell.

Come, come, Adonai,
who on the mount of Sinai
gave your people the Law
in glorious majesty.
II. THE VIRGIN & THE ANGEL

Angelus ad virginem
subintrans in conclave,
virginis formidinem
demulcens, inquit: —Ave!
Ave Regina Virginum!
Celi terreque Dominum
concipies, et paries intacta
salutem hominum;
tu porta celi facta,
medela criminum.

The angel, coming secretly
to the Virgin,
calming the Virgin's
fear, said: —Hail!
hail, Queen of Virgins!
You shall conceive the Lord of Heaven and Earth
and give birth, remaining a virgin,
to the salvation of mankind;
you are made the gateway of heaven,
the cure for sin.

Gabriel, fram Heven-King
Sent to the maide sweete,
Broute his blisful tiding
And fair he gan hir greete:
—Heil be thu, ful of grace aright!
For Godes Son, this HevenLight,
For mannes love will man bcome and take Fles of thee, Maide bright, Manken free for to make
Of sen and devles might.

Gabriel, sent from the King of Heaven
to the sweet maiden,
brought her happy news
and greeted her courteously:
—Hail be thou, full of grace indeed!
For God's Son, this Light of Heaven,
for love of man will become man and take human form from thee, fair Maiden,
to free mankind
from sin and the devil's might.

Mildelich him gan andswere
The milde maide thanne:
—Wichewise sold ich bere
A child withute manne?
Th'angel hir seid: —Ne dred tee nout:
Thurw th'Oligast sal ben iwrout
This ilche thing warof tiding ich bringe;
Al manken wurth ibout
Thurw thine sweet childinge
And ut of pine ibrout.

The gentle maiden then
answered him gently:
—In what manner should I bear
a child without a husband?
The angel said to her: —Fear nothing:
through the Holy Ghost shall be done
this very thing of which I bring news;
all mankind shall be redeemed
through thy sweet childbearing and brought out of torment.
When the maiden understood and heard the angel’s words,
gently, with gentle spirit
she answered the angel:
— I am indeed the bondmaid
of our Lord, who is above:
concerning me may thy words be fulfilled,
that I, since it is His will,
may, as a maiden, outside natural law,
have the joy of motherhood.

The angel disappeared,
and at once the girl’s
womb swelled up
by the power of the birth of salvation.
He, having been contained in the womb
for nine months,
came out from it and entered the conflict,
taking on his shoulder
the cross, by which he gave a blow to the mortal enemy.

O Mother of the Lord,
who restored peace
to angels and men
when you gave birth to Christ,
beg of your son
that he may show himself favorable to us
and wipe away our sins,
offering help
to enjoy the blessed life
after this exile.

And he whom I may find angry,
I will leave his company

This New Year’s Day, when each must give a gift
joyfully to his fair sweet love,
as for me, I wish for my part to give my heart and body entirely to my lady, who does so much worthy of praise:
all that I have I bestow fully upon her
this New Year’s Day, when each must give a gift
joyfully to his fair sweet love.

My heart compels me to love faithfully
on this day and all my life long;
mirth and laughter, pleasure and good cheer shall I ever enjoy, for which I must thank her.

V. A CHILD IS BORN TO US

Puer nobis nascitur
rectorque angelorum
in hoc mundo paritur
dominus dominorum.

In praesepe ponitur
sub foeno asinorum,
pannis et involvit
Christus rex saeculorum.

Angeli pastoribus
nuntiant in Bethleem
promissum hominibus
natum jam salvatorem.

Canant laeti domino
gloria in excelsis, homini corde bono
pax et salus in terris.

Gaudens ad praesepium
turba currit pastorum;
in lactente dominum
adorant angelorum.

Magi stella moniti
dona ferunt infanti,
myrrham litant homini,
deo thus, aurum regi.

Tunc Herodes timuit
caeco tumens livore
et infantes abstulit
diro caecos murcione.

A child is born to us
and the ruler of the angels
is born into this world,
the Lord of lords.

He is placed in a manger
under asses' straw
and swaddled in a cloth:
Christ, the King of the world.

The angels announce to the shepherds in Bethlehem
that the promised Savior
is now born for men.

They sing happily to the Lord:
"Glory in the highest and on earth peace and salvation
to men of good heart."

Rejoicing, the crowd of shepherds runs to the manger
and they adore the suckling babe,
Lord of the angels.

The magi, guided by the star,
bring gifts to the infant:
they offer myrrh to the man,
incense to the God, gold to the King.

Then Herod grew fearful,
swelling with blind envy,
and with dreadful blade
he slew the blind infants.
Quid Herodes efficis?
Quem quaeris liberatur
et aeternam pueris
vitam ipse largitur.

Nos de tali gaudio
domino jubilemus,
nascentique filio
pia corda litemus.

Qui natus ex Maria

Now Cryst hys grace he gan us gysse,
And with hys body us bought to blysse,
Bothe al and sum.

De fructu ventris of Mary bright,
Bothe God and man in here alyght:
Owte of dysese he dyde us dyght,
Bothe al and sum.

Puer natus to us was sent,
To blysse us bought, fro bale us blent,
And ellys to wo we hadde ywent,
Bothe al and sum.

Lux fulgebit with love and lyght,
In Mary mylde hys pynon pyght,
In here toke kynde with manly myght,
Bothe al and sum.

Gloria tibi ay and blysse:
God unto his grace he us wyssse,
The rent of heven that we not myssse,
Bothe al and sum.
Nova, nova! Ave fit ex Eva.

Gabriell off hye degre,
He cam down from Trinite
To Nazareth in Galile.

He met a maydn in a place,
He knelyd down afore hir face,
He seyd, Heile Mary, ful of grace!

When the maiden herd tell off this,
Sche was full sore abaschyd iwys,
And wened that sche had don amysse.

Then seid th’angell, Dred not thue,
Ye shall conceyve in all vertu
A Chyld whose name shall be Jhesu.

It is not yit syx moneth agoon
Sen Elizabeth conceyved John,
As it was prophysed beforne.

Then seid the mayden verely,
I am youre servaunt right truely.
*Ecce ancilla domini.

News, news! “Ave” is made from “Eva.”*

Gabriel of high office
was sent by the Trinity
to Nazareth in Galilee.

He came to the maiden,
knelt down before her,
and said, Hail Mary, full of grace!

When the maiden heard this,
she was filled with fear, indeed,
and thought she had done wrong.

But the angel said, Fear not,
for you shall conceive without sin
a child whose name shall be Jesus.

It is not yet six months ago
that Elizabeth conceived John,
as was prophesied before.

Then the maiden said, Verily
I am your most true servant:
Behold the handmaiden of the Lord.

BLUE HERON has been acclaimed by The Boston Globe as “one of the Boston music community’s indispensables” and hailed by Alex Ross in The New Yorker for its “expressive intensity.” The ensemble ranges over a wide repertoire from plainchant to new music, with particular specialities in 15th-century Franco-Flemish polyphony and early 16th-century English sacred music, and is committed to vivid live performance informed by the study of original source materials and historical performance practices.

Founded in 1999, Blue Heron presents a concert series in Cambridge, Massachusetts, and has appeared at the Boston Early Music Festival; in New York City at Music Before 1800, The Cloisters (Metropolitan Museum of Art), and the 92nd Street Y; at the Library of Congress, the National Gallery of Art, and Dumbarton Oaks in Washington, D.C.; at the Berkeley Early Music Festival; at Yale University; in Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Montreal, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Providence, St. Louis, San Luis Obispo, Seattle, and Vancouver; and in Cambridge and London, England. Blue Heron’s first CD, featuring music by Guillaume Du Fay, was released in 2007. Between 2010 and 2017 the ensemble issued a 5-CD series of Music from the Peterhouse Partbooks, including many world premiere recordings of works copied c. 1540 for Canterbury Cathedral and restored by Nick Sandon. The fifth CD was awarded the 2018 Gramophone Classical Music Award for Early Music and the five discs are now available as a set entitled The Lost Music of Canterbury. In 2015 Professor Jessie Ann Owens and Blue Heron won the Noah Greenberg Award from the American Musicological Society to support the world premiere recording of Cipriano de Rore’s I madrigali a cinque voci, released in 2019. In 2015 Blue Heron also inaugurated Ockeghem@600, a multi-season project to perform the complete works of Johannes Ockeghem (c. 1420-1497), which will wind up around 2022 in time to commemorate the composer’s circa-600th birthday. A parallel project to record all of Ockeghem’s songs and motets bore its first fruits in 2019 with the release of Johannes Ockeghem: Complete Songs, Volume I, which was named to the Bestenliste of the Preis der deutschen Schallplattenkritik. Blue Heron’s recordings also include a CD of plainchant and polyphony that accompanies Thomas Forrest Kelly’s book Capturing Music: The Story of Notation, the live recording Christmas in Medieval England, and a compilation of medieval songs entitled A 14th-Century Salmagundi.

Acknowledgments

Blue Heron’s existence is made possible only through the devotion, hard work, and financial support of a large community of musicians, staff, board members, volunteers, donors, and concertgoers. Never has this been more true than in this extraordinary season of 2021–22. Many thanks to all those who join us in creating, nurturing, and sustaining an organization dedicated to making the music of the past come alive in the 21st century.

We are extraordinarily fortunate to work with a slate of talented, skilled, and devoted designers, engineers, videographers, and photographers. Our programs, printed publicity materials, and CDs were designed by Melanie Germond for years, until she retired from the business last year; we are now very happy to have a new relationship with John Kramer. FlashPrint in Harvard Square prints our programs — and we look forward eagerly to the day they are printed once again. Erik Bertrand built our website and keeps it functioning properly. Liz Linder is our photographer. Our concerts are recorded by Philip Davis (Cape Ann Recordings) or Joel Gordon. Joel is also the engineer for our CDs, working with our producer Eric Milnes. Kathy Wittman (Ball Square Films) is our videographer. In 2020–21 Joel and Kathy have stepped up to produce all of our events for remote broadcast. Our debt to these wonderful people who have shaped our look and sound is impossible to overstate.

Many thanks to our board and to all our dedicated volunteers for their help in person, this evening, and always.
