Veni, veni, Emanuel!

Captivum solve Israel,
Qui gemit in exilio,
Privatus Dei filio.

Gaude! gaude! Emanuel nascetur pro te, Israel.

Veni, O Jesse Virgula!
Ex hostis tuos ungula,
De specu tuos tartari
Educ, et antro barathri.

Veni, veni, O Oriens!
Solare nos adveniens,
Noctis depelle nebulas,
Dirasque noctis tenebras.

Veni, Clavis Davidica!
Regna reclude celica,
Fac iter tutum superum,
Et claude vias inferum.

Veni, veni, Adonai,
Qui populo in Sinai
Legem dedisti vertice
In maiestate glorie.

13th century French?

Come, O come, Emmanuel!
Redeem captive Israel,
who laments in exile,
deprived of the son of God.

Rejoice! rejoice! Emanuel shall be born to you, O Israel.

Come, O Rod of Jesse!
From the enemy's claws,
from the pit of hell
lead your people, and from the maw of the abyss.

Come, come, O Morning Star!
Console us with your coming,
dispel the gloom of night,
and pierce the nocturnal shadows.

Come, Key of David!
Open wide the heavenly kingdom,
make safe the road above,
and bar the ways to hell.

Come, come, Adonai,
who on the mount of Sinai
gave your people the Law
in glorious majesty.

Angelus ad virginem
subintrans in conclave,
virginis formidinem
demulcens, inquit: —Ave!
Ave Regina Virginum!
Celi terreque Dominum
conciplies, et paries intacta
salutem hominum;
tu porta celi facta,
medela criminum.

The angel, coming secretly
to the Virgin,
calming the Virgin's
fear, said: —Hail!
hail, Queen of Virgins!
You shall conceive the Lord of Heaven and Earth
and give birth, remaining a virgin,
to the salvation of mankind;
you are made the gateway of heaven,
the cure for sin.

Gabriel, fram Heven-King

Sent to the maide sweete,
Broute his blisful tiding
And fair he gan hir greet:
—Heil be thou, ful of grace aright!
For Godes Son, this Heven-Light,
For mannes love will man bicomme and take Fles of thee, Maide bright, Manken free for to make
Of sen and devles might.

Mildelich him gan andswere
The milde maide thanne:
—Wichewise sold ich bere
A child withute manne?
Th'angel hir seid: —Ne dred tee nout:
Thurw th'Oligast sal ben iwroun
This ilche thing warof tiding ich bringe;
Al manken wurth ibout
Thurw thine sweet childinge
And ut of pine ibroun.

Wan the maiden understood
And th'angels wordes herde,
Mildelich, with milde mood,
To th'angel hie andswerde:
—Ure Lords thewe maid iwis Ich am, that heer aboven is;
Anentis me fulfurthed be thi sawe,
That ich, sith his wil is,
A maid, withute lawe,
Of moder have the blis.

Gabriel, sent from the King of Heaven
to the sweet maiden,
brought her happy news
and greeted her courteously:
—Hail be thou, full of grace indeed!
For God's Son, this Light of Heaven,
for love of man will become man and take human form from thee, fair Maiden,
to free mankind
from sin and the devil's might.

The gentle maiden then answered him gently:
—In what manner should I bear
a child without a husband?
The angel said to her: —Fear nothing:
through the Holy Ghost shall be done
this very thing of which I bring news;
all mankind shall be redeemed
through thy sweet childbearing and brought out of torment.

When the maiden understood and heard the angel's words,
gently, with gentle spirit
she answered the angel:
—I am indeed the bondmaid
of our Lord, who is above:
concerning me may thy words be fulfilled,
that I, since it is His will,
may, as a maiden, outside natural law,
have the joy of motherhood.

Angelus disparuit
et statim puellaris
uterus intumuit
vi partis salutaris.
Qui, circumdatus utero
novem mensium numero,
hinc exiit et iniit conflictum
affigens humero
crucem, qua dedit ictum
hosti mortifero.

Eya, Mater Domini,
que pacem reddidisti
angelis et homini
cum Christum genuisti,
tuum exora filium
ut se nobis propitium
exhibeat et deleat peccata,
prestans auxilium
vita frui beata
post hoc exilium.

Latin by Philip the Chancellor? (d. 1236), English version anonymous 13th century

The angel disappeared,
and at once the girl's womb swelled up
by the power of the birth of salvation.
He, having been contained in the womb
for nine months,
came out from it and entered the conflict,
taking on his shoulder
the cross, by which he gave a blow to the mortal enemy.

O Mother of the Lord,
who restored peace
to angels and men
when you gave birth to Christ,
beg of your son
that he may show himself favorable to us
and wipe away our sins,
offering help
to enjoy the blessed life
after this exile.

Antiphon for the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary; Song of Songs 4:6-8

Veni, redemptor gentium,
Ostende partum virginis.
Miretur omne seculum;
Talis decet partus Deum.

Non ex virili semine
Sed mistico spiramine
Verbum Dei factum caro, Fructusque ventris floruit.

Alvus tumescit virginis,
Claustra pudoris permanent;
Vexilla virtutum micant;
Versatur in templo Deus.

Come, savior of the gentiles,
And manifest your birth to a virgin.
All the world shall marvel:
God decreed such a birth.

Not of man's seed
But of the Holy Spirit
Is the word of God made flesh,
And the fruit of the womb flowers.

The womb of the virgin did swell,
Yet remained a cloister of chastity;
The banners of virtue shine forth:
God dwells in his temple.

He goes forth from his chamber,
A royal hall of purity,
A giant of twofold substance,
Eager to run his course.

Glory be to God the Father
And to his only Son,
With the Holy Spirit,
Now and forevermore. Amen.

The Lord said to me, Thou art my Son: this day
have I begotten thee.

Why do the nations rage, and the people imagine a

Glory to the Father, and the Son, and the

and so will I, with right good cheer

As I lay down on Yule night,
alone in my longing,
methought I saw a well fair sight,
a maiden rocking her child.

The maiden wished without a song
to bring her child to sleep;
the child thought she did him wrong
and bade his mother sing.

Sing now, mother, said the child,
what shall befall me
hereafter when I am of age:
so do mothers all.

Sweet son, said she,
whereof should I sing?
I never yet knew more of thee
than Gabriel's greeting.

He greeted me courteously on his knee,
and said, Hail Mary,
full of grace, God is with thee:
thou shalt bear Messiah.

I wondered much in my thoughts,
for I would have no man.
Mary, he said, dread thou not,
let God of Heaven work this alone.

said he, without delay,
that I should bear mankind's bliss:

He said, Thou shalt bear a king
in King David's city:
in all the land of Jacob shall he be king.

I answered gladly,
for his word pleased me,
Behold, I am God's servant,
be it as thou hast said.

A boy-child was sent to us,
redeemed us unto bliss, turned us aside from evil,

in her assumed humanity with manly boldness,

Christmas in Medieval England

The medieval commemoration of Christ's nativity was introduced by the preparatory and penitential season of Advent, beginning on the fourth Sunday before Christmas Day. After Christmas itself came a series of saints' days, including those of St. Stephen, St. John the Apostle, and St. Thomas of Canterbury. Ritual observances reached another climax on the feast of the Circumcision on January 1, the Octave or eighth day of Christmas, which was the traditional first day of the New Year and, until the thirteenth century, also the feast day of the Virgin Mary. Celebrations continued through Epiphany on January 6, marking the revelation to the Gentiles and the Adoration of the Magi, and extended to Candlemas on February 2, the fortieth day after Christmas, when Christians observed both the feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple and the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin.

Throughout the Christmas season, the liturgy of the Church was embellished and expanded with textual and musical tropes which added color and ceremony to the festivities while establishing a closer connection between the universality of ritual and the particularity of a specific sanctuary or congregation. Textual tropes included substitutes for items such as antiphons and versicles, or for parts of the Ordinary of the Mass. In England a troped Kyrie was the rule for all major feasts. A polyphonic setting of an item from the Ordinary such as the Gloria or Sanctus, replacing the plainchant, might be considered a purely musical trope. Fifteenth-century England also evolved its own unique repertoire of texts and music outside or alongside the liturgy, carols, of which some 130 survive. Carols are found mostly in manuscripts of church music and were the province of professional musicians and learned clerics, as witness their sophisticated musical notation and frequent use of Latin alongside the vernacular. If not exactly popular music in our sense, however, they were at least popular in character—cast in strophic form and set to simple and highly memorable tunes—and “popular in destination” (in the words of R. L. Greene, the preeminent twentieth-century student of their texts). They might have provided entertainment and edification to educated cleric and uneducated congregant alike, within, around, and outside of the liturgy, for processions and banquets and celebrations of all kinds.

This program offers a small selection of music for the Christmas season—plainchant, carols, and polyphonic antiphons and settings of the Mass—that might have been heard in England in the 1440s, when the most modern of the works on the program were composed. We begin with the familiar Advent hymn Veni, veni Emanuel. Probably French in origin, the hymn may have made its way to England as early as the thirteenth century, when Franciscan friars in France and England maintained extensive connections and an evangelizing member of the order might have carried such a song across the Channel. The text is a metrical version of five of the seven so-called O-antiphons which date back to the eighth century or earlier. One of the O-antiphons was sung before and after the Magnificat at Vespers on each of the seven days before Christmas Eve. They address the Messiah to come in his various attributes: O Sapientia (wisdom), O Adonai (Lord), O Radix Jesse (root of Jesse), O Clavis David (key of David), O Oriens (the morning star), O Rex (king), O Emanuel (“God with us”). The initial letters, after the O, spell out the promise of redemption in a reverse acrostic, SARCORE, ero cras: “Tomorrow I shall be there.” (Medieval English tradition added an eighth antiphon, “O virgo virginum,” making the acrostic vero cras: “Truly, tomorrow!”)

The Annunciation is formally commemorated nine months before Christmas, of course, but the miracle is remembered and celebrated at the Christmas season with retellings of the archangel Gabriel’s appearance to Mary, their conversation—brief, yet charged with import—and the divine conception. Our set of Annunciation music opens with one of the most famous songs of the English Middle Ages, Angelus ad virginem. The song figures in Chaucer’s Canterbury Tales, in the Miller’s Tale, where it is sung to a psalter by a poor scholar at Oxford by the name of Nicholas:

And al above ther lay a gay sautrie,
On which he made a-nyghtes melodie
So swetely that al the chambre rong,
And Angelus ad virginem he song ...

(In the tale, a notably rude one, Nicholas goes on to cuckold his landlord, an elderly carpenter with an eighteen-year-old wife named Alison. A medieval reader would presumably have relished the ironic reference to a song about a virgin conceiving a son in the absence of her husband, also a carpenter.) Christopher Page has shown that the text of Angelus ad virginem is probably by the poet and theologian Philippe (d. 1236), chancellor of Paris, nearly all of whose Latin lyrics survive with music. Text and tune probably came to England with travelling Franciscans in the thirteenth century, just as we have imagined happened with Veni, veni Emanuel. The song quickly became popular in England: all of the extant sources are British and there are two thirteenth-century versions in English verse, Gabriel fram Heven-King and The angel to the Vergyn said. We sing the former in a two-voice setting from the fourteenth century, inserted between verses of the monophonic Latin song.

The carols on the program are drawn from several manuscripts copied between around 1400 and the 1440s whose contents overlap somewhat. With the exception of the rather ambitiously contrapuntal Epiphany carol Ave rex angelorum, the carols are written in a robust popular style with graceful melody and simple harmonies and often take the form of a three-voice refrain with a two-voice verse. The rollicking Nowel! Owt of your slepe aryse inverts this pattern, with a brilliant three-voice verse and a refrain whose two parts roll from voice to voice. Both Lolay lolay and Nova nova are transmitted as unaccompanied melody; I have added two parts to the refrain and one to the verse of the latter, but we sing the lullaby Lolay lolay plain. Two of the earliest English songs on the program, Ave Maria I say and Thys Yol, both for two parts, are in a sort of virelai form, AbbA. We also play them as instrumental pieces with an added third part.

The decades between the 1410s and the 1440s saw striking changes in the compositional style of learned polyphony. In some instances we can hear the change in the works of a single composer. Listen to the craggy dissonances and bristly cross-rhythms of Leonel Power's astonishing Gloria from the Old Hall manuscript of c. 1415, for two, four, and finally five voices—Christopher Page likens the effect to sticking your head into a beehive—and compare it to his Ibo michi ad montem mirre, transmitted in a continental manuscript from the 1440s. The latter work is fluid, tuneful, and almost entirely consonant—sweeter, a fifteenth-century musician would probably say, just as Hayl Mary and Ther is no rose are sweet. Power's later music has lost none of its ability to dazzle with complex cross-rhythms, as the dancing Alleluia of Ibo michi demonstrates, but the effect is suave and sensuous rather than glittering and prickly.

The Gloria by Pycard (whoever he may have been), like Power's, is a work from the Old Hall manuscript, and the rigid construction that underlies it is typical of the earlier aesthetic, less sweet than brilliant. Here two of the upper three voices sing in canon at the distance of five breves (or measures), as do the two tenors. The canons are complicated and partially obscured by a third upper voice moving at the same speed and in the same range as the other two. Towards the end, when the three upper voices trade hockets (the term, related to the English hiccup, describes a rapidfire back-and-forth exchange of single notes), the entire ensemble locks into a regular pattern of five measures, like waves rising and breaking on the shore.

The most modern of the works on our program are the Sanctus and Agnus dei from the Missa Veterem hominem. Composed in the 1440s by an anonymous English composer, this Mass was part of the great wave of English works that crashed onto the European continent in the mid-fifteenth century, inspiring a host of imitations by French and Flemish composers. Like Power's Ibo michi and indeed, most mid-century English music, it survives only in continental copies, the English originals having disappeared almost without exception. The Missa Veterem hominem takes as its cantus firmus an antiphon for Lauds at the Octave of the Epiphany ("The Savior comes to baptism, bringing renewal to old man"), and its Kyrie (not performed on this program) sets the trope Deus creator omnium, which was sung in the Sarum rite on all principal and major double feasts, including Christmas. These features make it a perfect choice for a festive Mass during the Christmas season, while its vigorous rhythms, dashing melodies, and clangorous harmonies offer an apt musical counterpart to the blazing candles, the bright colors of festal vestments, the flashing gold, silver, and jewels of the ceremonial vessels, the swirling smoke and intoxicating odor of frankincense, and all the rest of the liturgical drama of High Mass on one of the most glorious feast days of the Christian year.

recording of Cipriano de Rore's I madrigali a cinque voci, released in 2019. In 2015 Blue Heron inaugurated Okeghem@600, a multi-season project to commemorate the circa-600th birthday of Johannes Okeghem (c. 1420-1497) by performing his complete works, finishing up in 2023. A parallel project to record all of Okeghem's songs bore its first fruits in 2019 with the release of Johannes Okeghem: Complete Songs, Volume I, which was named to the Bestenliste of the Preis der deutschen Schallplattenkritik; Volume 2 will follow this season. Blue Heron's recordings also include a CD accompanying Thomas Forrest Kelly's book Capturing Music: The Story of Notation, the live recording Christmas in Medieval England, a compilation of medieval songs entitled A 14th-Century Salmagundi, and (in collaboration with Les Délices) a live recording of a concert production of Guillaume de Machaut's Remede de Fortune.

She has been music director at the American Repertory Theater, creating music for Christopher Marlowe's Dido, Queen of Carthage, for which she earned an IRNE nomination for best musical score. In 2015, she was part of the BEMF team that won a Grammy for best opera recording. She has performed as soloist with conductors Christopher Hogwood, Edo de Waart, Seiji Ozawa, Craig Smith, Martin Pearlman, Harry Christophers, Grant Llewellyn, and Bernard Haitink. Her next album release is Skylark’s Clear Voices in the Dark (forthcoming in 2024), the first US recording of Francis

Acknowledgments

BLUE HERON exists thanks to the devotion, hard work, and financial support of a large community of musicians, staff, board members, volunteers, donors, and concertgoers. We are grateful to everyone who joins us in creating, nurturing, and sustaining an organization dedicated to making vocal ensemble music live in the 21st century.

We are extraordinarily fortunate to work with a slate of talented and skilled designers, engineers, videographers, and photographers. Our concerts and CDs are recorded by Joel Gordon. Kathy Wittman (Ball Square Films) is our videographer. Our CDs are produced by Eric Milnes. Our programs, printed publicity materials, and CDs were designed by Melanie Germond until 2019 and by John Kramer from 2019-2023; our new designer is Aaron Haesaert. FlashPrint in Harvard Square prints our programs, as they have since 1999. Erik Bertrand built our website and keeps it functioning properly. Liz Linder is our photographer. Our debt to these wonderful people who have shaped our look and sound is impossible to overstate.

Many thanks to our board and to all our dedicated volunteers for their help in person, at this concert, and always.

We are honored and grateful to have so many generous donors. Thank you!
